TALLAHASSEE, FL – The Florida League of Cities (FLC), the united voice for Florida’s municipal governments, announced the City of Tampa’s Mayor’s Youth Corps and Leadership Council as one of three winners of the 2024 Municipal Youth Council Community Service Contest. The annual competition showcases community service projects performed by municipal youth councils that successfully address specific needs in their local communities.

Municipal youth councils are special councils that typically serve as advisory boards to the local governments. They are composed of high school students within the city and are sometimes referred to as youth corps, teen advisory boards or mayor’s youth councils.

“The volunteer work done by these youth councils to serve their communities is truly inspiring,” said FLC President Greg Ross, Mayor of Cooper City. “These future leaders identified powerful ways to help their cities, and they are setting an example for all of us who are working to improve our communities. On behalf of the League, congratulations to this year’s winners!”

The Mayor’s Youth Corps and Leadership Council volunteered at Trinity Cafe, a sit-down restaurant for individuals who were homeless and food insecure. The wait staff, as well as the hosts, are volunteers. The purpose of the volunteering project was to wait on customers, make conversation and better understand the realities of food insecurity in Tampa.

The City of Alachua Youth Advisory Council and Orange City’s Youth Advisory Council were also named winners in the statewide competition. Contest winners will receive a trophy and be featured by the League’s award-winning magazine, Quality Cities (QC), as well as on the League’s website and social media outlets.
